Job Description

Duel Architecture is looking for a dynamic and enthusiastic strong intermediate architectural technologist to join our team. This individual is a graduate from a recognized technical school and or University. While you would be part of the overall production team, this person should be confident and able to run with a project without too much supervision. In other words, we'd like you to know your stuff & we'd expect you to be pretty familiar with the typical technical details for projects in this part of the world, AutoCAD, Revit, Sketch-Up & some Adobe products. You should be able to be quite fluent in English, written and spoken as you will be periodically interacting with some clients, consultants, construction personnel, project managers and quite possibly the Development Authority. Your training will also include exposure to Construction Administration and all that that implies. We need someone who pays attention to detail, is well organized and appreciates a challenge.

We offer quite a nice health care package, competitive salary and a pleasant work environment. Hours of work, etc. will be discussed further at your interview. This is a FULL TIME POSITION. Please send your resumes to info@duelarchitecture.com Return emails will be sent to only those whose resumes best fit our position.

Thanks in advance.
