Job Description

A digital practice comprised of architectural innovators, Next Architecture is the future of making buildings.

We are growing our Edmonton studio and are seeking to add a highly qualified registered architect who has the drive to become an owner and principal.

Qualifications & Skill Sets

Please apply only if you meet the following mandatory pre-qualification criteria:

- 5-10 years of experience since being registered, with a mix of Commercial, Educational, Healthcare, Heritage, Multi-Family, and Mixed-Use projects.
- Currently registered with Alberta Association of Architects (AAA), or the unrestricted ability to obtain registration.
- Demonstrated ability to work hands-on, using collaborative digital workflows (3D deliverables within Revit, and BIM360).

In addition, the ideal candidate will have the ability to:

- Learn, adopt, and adapt quickly.
- Use a radical common-sense approach (lean and critical thinking that challenges established practices) to solve problems and action appropriate results.
- Initiate and foster relationships with private and public sector clients, including business and full proposal development.
- Lead a growing team on $12M-$15M projects from commencement to completion, including ownership of scope, timeline, and budget.
- Fluently speak the technical language required to successfully navigate projects through the various requirements set out by clients, collaborators, applicable codes, and authorities having jurisdiction.
- Assist clients and colleagues in a transition away from 2D content/deliverables and towards 3D and digital fabrication (dFAB).

We deliberately look for colleagues that share our values, possess the necessary aptitude, and have the right skills for success. Please demonstrate why that's you, and what you are going to bring to Next. No specialists or primadonnas, please. This position is based in Edmonton, AB.
