Job Description

hcma designs buildings, brands, and experiences that maximize positive impact. To do this, we bring together passionate, intelligent, and engaged individuals who want to make a lasting change.

We are looking to add Architectural Technologists to our team. If you are excited by the future of architectural thinking and are committed to community and city building, we want to hear from you.

Qualifications & Skill Sets

If you're well-suited for this position, you possess the following:

- A passion for architecture with a broad spectrum of experience in the process of achieving architectural objectives through participation in the design process, producing visualizations for design review and technical resolution, research of systems and products and developing standards for constructability and sustainability;
- An appreciation of high quality architectural design and the ability to apply rigour and design intent to all levels of detailing;
- A deep understanding of how to put together a set of construction documents that provides clarity to those who implement them;
- Demonstrated experience detailing larger scale institutional buildings and market residential;
- Construction Administration experience an asset;
- Strong technical, graphic and organizational skills;
- A high level of proficiency in Revit is necessary;
- AutoCAD knowledge is an asset;
- A Diploma in Architectural Technology or equivalent;
- A commitment to professionalism with an Architectural Technologist AIBC or AAA designation (preferred);
- Ability to work independently and through collaboration and co-creation with a team;
- Knowledge of the AB and BC Building Code and its application to construction detailing;
- Minimum five years post-graduation of relevant work experience in a similar role;
- Strong ability to communicate effectively and work collaboratively with consultants and other stakeholders;
